MANY LEAVING PEIPING IN FEAR OF NEW BATTLE

Chinese and Foreigners Believe Bitter Fighting Will Follow Present Lull

Japan "Electrified" By Danger of War

PEIPING (AP)—Japanese and Chinese alike began evacuation of this ancient city today amid predictions and fears that hostilities between Japanese and Chinese troops would be resumed.

Peace negotiations apparently had failed, despite a Japanese report such deliberations were under way with local authorities of Hopeh and Chahar provinces.

Chinese and foreign observers expressed belief the present lack of fighting was but a lull before more bitter military activity.

The Japanese informant who told of conferences with the local authorities said no more demands would be made on the Chinese over the past week's fighting in the Peiping area.

He indicated Japan now was asking only an agreement for withdrawal of Chinese troops from the Wanpinghshien area, retribution for damages to Japanese forces, suppression of so-called anti-Japanese activities, and a campaign against Communism in China.

MORE TROOPS SENT

The Japanese high command, meanwhile, sent 2,000 reinforcements from Tientsin, fully supported by artillery and armored cars, to the Peiping area Wednesday after the defeat of Japanese troops by the 29th Chinese Route Army before the southern and eastern gates of the city Tuesday.

They were headed for the Japanese army field base at Fengtai, west of the city, in the zone where clashes between night-manoeuvring Japanese and the 29th Army Wednesday of last week precipitated the present crisis between Japan and China.

The reinforcements moved up to the front in a fleet of motor trucks composed of transport units just arrived from Manchukuo and in all available vehicles that could be bought from Tientsin dealers.

At the same time, however, Japanese sources here announced their troops had evacuated the Wangpinghshien village area near the Marco Polo bridge where the first clash occurred.

The Japanese sources described the withdrawal as "indicating a desire to effect a settlement." This latest development caused another lull in the surface tension, but seemingly did not end the increasing difficulties of the crisis.

Fighting was halted after an engagement near the Nanyuan airfield, eight miles south of Peiping, had lasted almost into

BIG SULPHITE PLANT FOR B.C.

Construction of $8,000,000 Mill at Prince Rupert to Start Soon

VANCOUVER — Construction of an $8,000,000 bleached sulphite mill at Prince Rupert, B.C., capable of handling 250 tons daily, was announced today by Frank L. Buckley. Work will begin as soon as engineers' surveys are completed and the mill is expected to be in production by the end of 1938.

Mr. Buckley said Prince Rupert had been chosen as the site because it was centrally located to supplies of spruce, hemlock and balsam. Some 2,500 men will be employed in the mill and woods.

It will be the first pulp mill on the American continent designed and built from the start for the exclusive manufacture of high-grade bleached sulphite (rayon) pulp. Mr. Buckley said the plans considered doubling of the capacity within three years or sooner.

This is the largest industrial project developing natural resources to be launched in British Columbia since 1929.

ROYAL VISIT IS PAID WALES

King and Queen See Distressed Areas; Receive Loyal Address at Cardiff

CARDIFF, Wales — The King and Queen, making a two-day state visit to Wales, today drove through the streets of this city and visited the distressed areas, where boys and girls gave a gymnastic display.

The children impressed the King by the vigor with which they sang the National Anthem and "Land of My Fathers," in Welsh.

Troops lined the streets for the state drive, in the course of which the King laid a wreath at the foot of the Welsh national war memorial.

On their arrival the Lord Mayor, Herbert Hiles, read a loyal address. Replying, the King reciprocated the city's good wishes, and expressed appreciation at the affectionate welcome.

Piccard's New Flying Device

While the Russian fliers were being welcomed in California today Dr. Jean Piccard was at Rochester, Minnesota, completing the testing of the new craft which he hopes soon will carry him to a world stratosphere record. Instead of one big bag, there are 80 four-foot balloons filled with hydrogen and all attached to the gondola, to lift the scientist, Dr. Piccard, shown at the right, admits they look like a bunch of grapes.

British Scheme For Spain Bars Laid Before Committee

Eden Asks Powers Keep Observers at Ports of the Warring Country

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Eden presented to the Non-Intervention Committee today Great Britain's compromise plan for re-establishment of control of arms shipments and foreign volunteers in the Spanish civil war.

He suggested abolition of the naval patrol and substitution of a system of observers to inspect incoming cargoes at every Spanish port.

Frontier control along the Franco-Spanish and Portuguese-Spanish borders would be restored.

Limited belligerent rights would be extended to both sides in the Spanish conflict by all the 27 nations in the Non-Intervention Committee.

Non-members of the committee would be asked to co-operate, and foreign volunteers would be withdrawn from both armies in Spain.

COMPROMISE PLAN

Mr. Eden's note said "it is admittedly a compromise between varying points of view; it can only be successful if it is accepted by the governments concerned in a spirit of compromise. All the nations represented on the committee have repeatedly expressed the view that they wish non-intervention in the Spanish conflict to continue. They now have the opportunity to give that wish practical effect."

General Franco has asked to be recognized as a belligerent, a status which would recognize his regime as having limited rights of government within Spain.

Germany and Italy recently withdrew from the naval patrol and objected to France and Great Britain continuing the patrol alone, alleging such a situation might be unfair to Franco and favor the Spanish government.

"Unless a greater spirit of international co-operation is evident than has been achieved in the past, this scheme will fail and the nations of Europe will be faced with a new, and infinitely more dangerous situation," Mr. Eden's note to the Non-Intervention Committee asserted.

Ottawa Sells Treasury Bills

OTTAWA — The Bank of Canada today accepted tenders for $25,000,000 in Dominion of Canada treasury bills, due October 15, 1937. The average discount price was $99.84102 and the average yield will be .632 per cent.

ROBINSON, U.S. SENATOR, DIES

Democratic Leader in Upper House Succumbs to Heart Attack

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, leader of the Democratic Party in the Senate, was found dead early today in his apartment.

It was said at the residence that he had been dead "four or five hours" when the body was found by a maid.

Death was attributed to a heart attack. He was in his 65th year.

Mr. Robinson, Vice-Presidential candidate in 1928, was in the midst of the administration's fight for the bill to increase the membership of the Supreme Court.

The sudden death of the Senate leader shocked the capital and threw the administration's legislative programme into turmoil.

Mr. Robinson was personally in charge of the administration's two major legislative campaigns to enact President Roosevelt's bills to reorganize the courts and the executive departments. His colleagues generally had expected his appointment to the Supreme Court to fill the vacancy created by the retirement of Justice Van Devanter.

WORKING HARD

The Democratic leader had been working with terrific energy during recent weeks in an effort to devise a compromise court bill for which he could obtain Senate approval. The substitute measure now under debate was drafted under his direction.

He also had given close personal attention to the government's attention to the Governor At Red Deer, Alta.

RED DEER, Alta. — Lord Tweedsmuir arrived today in this Red Deer Valley city for a three-day stay in the wake of a teeming rainstorm that freshened the country and made the fields green.

After a 150-mile train journey from Drumheller, in the coal mining country, the Governor-General and his touring party alighted at the station platform and received civic greetings from Mayor E. S. Hogg, who gave assurance of the loyalty of his citizens.

Young Pearson, a non-swimmer, was fishing with a young companion on the ferry slip. He attempted to climb a pile to continue his fishing when something gave way and he plunged twelve feet to the water below, striking piling as he fell. His friend, Lee Campbell, shouted for help but boats in the vicinity were unaware of the accident which had occurred.

Mr. Williamson, holidaying at Brentwood, heard the calls, realized what had happened, sighted the boy bobbing in the water and plunged in fully clad. He swam fifty yards to the youngster, who had come up for the third time, caught him and towed him to shore.

The boy, in a semiconscious condition, was taken to Bill Thorne's store, where first aid was rendered and Dr. M. C. McKichan summoned. Pearson's parents were notified and rushed to Brentwood to bring their boy home.

He was recovering today despite a severely bruised mouth, head, back and body.

Grateful parents were warm in their praise of Mr. Williamson for his prompt action.

Russian Fliers Greeted After Landing Plane East Of Los Angeles

BOY RESCUED AT BRENTWOOD

W. R. Williamson Saves Twelve-year-old Eric Pearson From Drowning

Eric Pearson, twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pearson, 636 Cornwall Street, owed his life today to the quick thinking and resolution of W. R. Williamson, 500 Joffre Street, driver for the Hudson's Bay Company, who rescued the boy from the waters off the Brentwood ferry slip about 4 yesterday afternoon.

Young Pearson, a non-swimmer, was fishing with a young companion on the ferry slip. He attempted to climb a pile to continue his fishing when something gave way and he plunged twelve feet to the water below, striking piling as he fell. Pilot M. Gromoff and Two Companions Circle Over San Diego in Fog Before Turning North and Coming Down in Pasture Near San Jacinto; Airline Distance 6,262 Miles, Not Including Their Departures From Direct Route; Time in Air From Moscow 62 Hours 17 Minutes

No Scotch For Three Aviators

MARCH FIELD, Calif. (AP)—Here's what the three Russian polar fliers ordered for breakfast this morning after three days on flight rations:

Ice cold milk, ham and eggs (Co-pilot Yumoseff skipped the ham), buttered toast and coffee.

All three refused Scotch and sodas offered them when they first sat down to breakfast.

They told army officers from March Field they had flown down to San Diego, but were unable to land because of the fog. They retraced their course northward searching for March Field.

They had no maps. The mountain range between San Diego and March Field was confusing to them.

They did not know just where they were when the gasoline tank began to leak.

A welcome pasture was seen near here and the big Soviet plane's nose was pointed down and a safe landing was made.

They were unable to communicate with the ranchers who came to the pasture.

FORMAL GREETINGS

Later, when Major Victor H. Strahm, of the U.S. Army Air Corps flew a single-seater to the pasture from March Field, 25 miles to the northeast, they were formally greeted.

He took them to March Field, their first land since they had left Moscow 62 hours and 17 minutes before their landing.

By signs they made known their wants—bath, eat and sleep.

The plane was not damaged in the landing.

They managed to indicate they did not have maps of the March Field location and that they had failed to see it from the air.

DISTANCE RECORD

The landing marked the longest air flight on record, an airline distance computed at 6,262 miles (though the Russians flew farther because of variations from the most direct route) in a little over 62 hours' flying time.

Arrangements for disposition of the plane were to be made on arrival of the Soviet consul-general from San Francisco, Grigori Cokhman, who had vainly sought to locate the fliers in the early hours of the morning in a chartered plane.

GAS TANK STREAMING

The gasoline tank was leaking a stream of fuel when the big monoplane was brought down at a point 90 miles east-southwest of Los Angeles.

San Jacinto is nestled in the eastern edge of the San Jacinto Mountains, 25 miles from March Field, which the fliers were attempting to make.

Several ranchers saw the big monoplane come to ground gracefully. They immediately telephoned to town and word was relayed to March Field.

Following Major Strahm, who flew from March Field to the scene, were a half dozen army guards sent by automobile to maintain station over the plane until the Soviet fliers and the March Field officers determine what steps will be taken.

ROUTE FROM MOSCOW

The Soviet trio left Moscow at 3:22 a.m. Monday, (4:22 p.m., P.S.T., Sunday). They passed over Rudolf Island, the last point of land between them and the North Pole, at 11:01 a.m. Monday, then battled snow and cyclonic winds before reaching the pole at 4:14 p.m., a little less than a day from Moscow.

On this stage of the flight the red-winged monoplane was kept at an altitude of 8,500 feet or above to escape wind resistance.

Earhart Search To End Saturday

U.S.S. Lexington's Planes Pause as Storm Sweeps Equatorial Pacific Area

HONOLULU — Naval authorities of the United States, directing a vast aerial search along the equator—in the Howland-Phoenix-Gilbert Island region—for Amelia Earhart and Capt. F. J. Noonan, missing 12 days, reduced the number of searching planes today and indicated the hunt would be ended Saturday.

Fliers of the aircraft carrier Lexington awaited passing of a tropical storm today before resuming their "last chance" search for the aviatrix and her navigator, who disappeared on a flight from New Guinea to tiny Howland Island on July 2.

Britain Consults U.S. on the Orient

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons today he had been in "consultation with the governments of the United States and France" on the Chinese-Japanese crisis.

His consultation was on the question "generally," he said.

"I propose to continue such consultations, and in the meantime His Majesty's Government will lose no opportunity that offers for making any contribution in their power towards a peaceful solution of these difficulties," the Foreign Secretary added.

Coast Defence Tests In Britain

Southampton, Plymouth, Portsmouth and Portland.

As dusk falls Friday evening, large sections will be completely blacked out. Motorists have been warned that military vehicles will be accepted while air warnings were being transmitted to naval, army and air headquarters.

Civilian aircraft have been advised to keep away from the "war area," where Royal Air Force machines will fly without the usual navigation lights.

Most of the raiders will take off from naval aircraft carriers, which will steal into the English and Bristol channels under cover of darkness. According to present plans the attack on Plymouth will begin tonight.

Most Extensive Exercises in History Now in Progress in Southwest England

LONDON (AP)—Great Britain launched the most extensive coast defence exercises in her history today.

The war games will reach a climax between midnight and 3 a.m. Friday, when the whole southwestern corner of England will be in a state of "national emergency."

Warships and air raid defences from a mythical "blue land"—for the purposes of the games considered to exist 600 miles out in the Atlantic—will attempt to wipe out the important commercial ports and naval bases of

OVER SAN DIEGO

He explained how they had approached San Diego and circled around, unable to find a hole through the fog, then turned back.

"We had some gas left," he resumed with a smile.

"The highest we flew was 18,000 feet, over the Rocky Mountains. We used some oxygen. We had an oxygen supply for 24 hours' use, but did not use it all."

Gromoff, the consul-general explained, is a Soviet ace flier and very proud of his prowess, particularly when compared with the French fliers.

"The French fliers," he said, "have dreamed of a flight from Paris to San Diego. We have made a flight from Moscow."

Gromoff was asked about the power plant of the plane. He said he believed all long distance flight efforts should be made with a single motored plane.

When asked why, he scratched his head, talked quite a bit to the consul-general, who finally said: "He says it is more economical with a single motor."

As to immediate plans, the consul said:

"They need some sleep. So do I. We will sleep here at March Field and tonight, when we wake up, we will determine what plans are to be made."

MEXICAN BORDER

Gromoff said they had circled around for hours over southern California, and two and a half hours in the San Diego vicinity, saying they had gone as "far as the Mexican border."

"Our distance was about 10,000 kilometres," he said.

"The weather was most difficult at the roof (meaning the North Pole). There were cyclones at some places and in other places anti-cyclones."

It was not officially determined whether the plane was actually leaking gasoline when it was in the air. Army officers said further inspection, after their first report it had come down leaking, indicated the wing containing gasoline supply may have sprung a leak in the landing near San Jacinto.

SENDS MESSAGES

Pilot Gromoff sent a dispatch to Moscow reading:

"After 62 hours and 17 minutes established two world records, one for straight flying, one blind flying. Greetings to Soviet people."

Then he sent another dispatch: "Proved feasibility of trans-Pole crossings, found magnetic disturbances. Radio communication O.K. with Russian stations. We reached Canada, then faded."

REBELS HOLD BRITISH SHIP

Mr. Duff Cooper paused and then replied: "It may interest the House to know that a British ship was captured while attempting to enter Santander this morning."

The unexpected reply raised a laugh from the Conservative benches. The Labor benches roared indignation.

"What are you going to do about it?" one member shouted at Mr. Duff Cooper.

"Seeing that General Franco has not been granted belligerent rights, will the first Lord tell us what the navy did to protect British shipping?" Mr. Attlee returned.

POSITIONS COMPARED

Before Mr. Duff Cooper could answer Vice-Admiral Ernest Taylor, Conservative, jumped to his feet with an angry demand as to whether Franco had not the same rights as the Valencia government within territorial waters.

The House was in a storm, with Labor members shouting "Answer! answer!" and Conservative backbenchers cheering Taylor.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, leader of the opposition Liberals, with an outstretched arm pointing to the Conservative benches, indignantly questioned: "Is it not rather remarkable that the capture of a British ship by the rebel forces should be greeted with hilarity?"

Liberal and Labor members cheered. In the hubbub a voice from the Labor benches could be heard ironically asking "Who stole the Union Jack?"

After the Speaker had restored order, Mr. Duff Cooper, replying to Mr. Hon. Wedgwood Benn, Labor, said the Admiralty had given no orders to British shipping. It had given advice on how best to act when in territorial waters.

Earlier Mr. Duff Cooper had declined to give to legal ruling on the position of merchant shipping in territorial waters. But he thought a common sense view was it would be much the same as the position of British subjects on the mainland. The British government did not undertake to protect British subjects on the Spanish mainland, but it reserved the right to demand reparation if wrong were done them.

ment's reorganization programme.

The sudden death of Mr. Robinson gave rise immediately to speculation over his successor as Democratic leader. When talk of his possible appointment to the Supreme Court began, three major possibilities were mentioned for leader—Senator J. F. Byrnes of South Carolina, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi and A. B. Barkley of Kentucky.

Mr. Robinson, for the last 15 years Democratic leader in the Senate, was one of the outstanding political figures in Washington.

After serving in the House of Representatives 10 years, he retired to become Governor of Arkansas. He stayed in the Governor's office only a few months, however, because a vacancy appeared in the Senate and he was quickly chosen to fill it, taking his seat in March, 1913.

OPPOSED ARMS TREATY

Mr. Robinson was serving his second term in the Senate when Japan became electrified with the thought operations of the empire's north China army, might bring war.

It was freely admitted Japan has not met such a formidable enemy since Russia was defeated in 1905.

The country was flooded today with pamphlets describing the increased power of China's military forces. The army declared China had 2,000,000 men, one half of whom were under the control of the Nanking government and trained by German war veterans.

Almost overnight the people of

The fliers, through an interpreter, said they disliked publicity and did not know what they would do in the near future. They would remain at March Field today to sleep.

The plane will be repaired and flown to March Field. It has a slight gas tank leak.

Later the plane may be flown to Los Angeles. This was not certain.

the summer dawn. Once again the gates of the city were opened and rail service to Tientsin was resumed.

Foreigners fled the city on the first of three trains allowed to leave for Tientsin.

Service was said to have been resumed, not because the military situation was improving but because the Japanese are anxious to avoid protests from foreign powers who are co-signatories of the Boxer Protocols of 1901. These provide that the road from Peiping to the sea must remain open.

Japan maintains the north China garrison, which is engaging Gen. Chung Chen-yuan's 29th Army, under the protocol.

NANKING, China (AP)—China's national government today hastened troops to concentration points, avowedly determined to resist what Chinese believe is a Japanese effort to dominate the northern provinces of Hopeh-Chahar.

The Chungshan memorial road, which traverses the heart of Nanking, was loaded with a variety of military and mechanical equipment.

Official news of troop movements was suppressed, but it was understood reliably that six divisions of Nanking's forces (about 80,000 men) and a Red Cross contingent had moved northward to the southern border of Hopeh.

Other Nanking units, including the air force, were ordered ready for emergency.

DEMAND REJECTED

TOKIO (AP)—China demanded Wednesday that Japan end the north China crisis by evacuating her troops from the battle area west of Peiping and halt movement of reinforcements to the front. The Japanese government immediately rejected the demands.

The government's rejection came while all forces of Japan were being mobilized as replacements for the troops moving in wholesale numbers to north China, where Chinese and Japanese have been fighting for a week.

Just previously a government spokesman had said bluntly Japan unalterably opposed any foreign intervention to settle the crisis. The Foreign Office spokesman said the government would consider suggestions of international consultation, but any proposal that partook of the nature of intervention certainly would be unacceptable.

The Chinese demands were presented by Y. C. Yang, charge d'affaires of the Chinese embassy in Tokio. The Japanese answer highlighted the impasse with the statement fulfillment of the terms of the shattered truce was a pre-requisite to any settlement.

The July 11 truce was reached verbally with north China officials and Japan since has been seeking to have it placed in writing.

CABINET MEETS DAILY

The cabinet has decided to hold daily sittings. With the danger of war believed to be increasing hourly, the government moved to check war profiteers and limit any flight of capital from the country. Prices of wheat, flour, coal, iron, steel and lumber already have advanced sharply.

The Home Ministry's mobilization order put all second-line defence organizations on an immediate duty status to police the empire and reinforce the Japanese army already moving to the Asiatic continent.

Almost overnight the people of

he became the recognized leader of the opposition to ratification of the Washington Arms Treaty. This projected him into position to be chosen Democratic leader in 1922 when Oscar Underwood of Alabama retired from that post.

When the Democrats gained control of the Senate along with the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mr. Robinson became majority leader. As such, he was the New Deal's legislative chieftain, and steered through Congress the mass of new laws initiated by President Roosevelt's administration.

Mr. Robinson was born in a small settlement near Little Rock, Ark., August 26, 1872, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Robinson.

On December 15, 1896, Senator Robinson married Miss Ewilda Gertrude Miller. They had no children.

Senator Robinson was in Vice-President Garner's party to the Philippine Islands and came to Victoria in October, 1935, on his way to the Orient. He spent the afternoon and evening in Victoria, being among the speakers at a dinner in the Empress Hotel.

He returned with the party in December, passing again through Victoria.

Of the chief speakers at the dinner here, three have since died. B. C. Nicholas, editor of The Victoria Daily Times, and Speaker of the United States House J. W. Byrnes, died last year.

MAILED BY WINDS

Favorable winds kept the plane ahead of schedule, and last night it became known definitely the objective would be "beyond Oakland."

As originally announced, the flight was to be from Moscow to San Francisco or beyond.

The purpose of the flight, announced by Pilot Gromoff, was to "confirm again the possibility of regular communications intercontinentally by way of the North Pole." Actually, the Soviet government wanted to demonstrate further the practicability of Soviet-engineered and manufactured aircraft, as first strikingly attested by the successful Moscow to Vancouver, Wash., flight of Valeria Chkaloff, Georgi Baidukoff, and Alex Beliakoff. They landed in Vancouver, June 20.

Gromoff, co-pilot Yumoshoff and navigator Danilin, received permission from the Kremlin June 10 to make their flight, and they intended to get away with the Chkaloff-Baidukoff-Beliakoff expedition. The plane was not ready, however, and bad weather caused a postponement until Sunday. Another Soviet expedition, headed by Sigismund Levanevsky, is scheduled to start from Moscow soon.

PREVIOUS RECORD

The previous long distance non-stop record of 5,637 miles, from New York to Tyria, was established by the Frenchmen, Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos, in 1933.

The second Soviet air expedition was made under rules of the International Aeronautical Federation. Officials of that organization along the Pacific Coast were notified to be ready to check the barograph of the plane, regardless of where it landed. Officials said the only precaution necessary was that the barograph be sealed when sent in for checking, with affidavits of persons who saw it taken from the plane, with the seal unbroken.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The direct air distance from Moscow to San Jacinto, Calif., was figured at 6,262 land miles by officers of the coast and geodetic survey here today.

The three Russian aviators, however, flew their plane a greater distance in avoiding polar storms.

LONGER FLIGHT POSSIBLE

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The Russian fliers who landed near San Jacinto, Calif., today after a flight from Moscow told Oumansky, charge d'affaires of the Soviet Embassy here, by long distance telephone they could have continued into Mexico had they wished to do so.

"The fliers," Oumansky asserted, "were extremely elated at having broken the non-stop long distance straight line record, and the non-stop long distance broken line record."

"They said they had an extremely good trip and had run into their worst weather over San Jacinto. The weather was so overcast there the fliers could not find a spot to land and so turned inland to San Jacinto."

They spent two hours over San Jacinto, Oumansky added.

NO FLAW IN PLANE

He said the fliers assured him the plane had functioned perfectly and was in perfect shape.

"They told me," he said, "the only reason they landed was that if they had come any farther they would have left the limits of the United States and landed in Mexico."

Oumansky said he had told the fliers to go to bed and have a well-needed rest, but they assured him they felt fine, were enjoying meeting the many people who flocked around their plane, were signing autographs in profusion and were being extremely well taken care of by the United States army personnel.

Oumansky said he was sure the fliers would make a trip to Washington before returning to Moscow, but he had not discussed their plans with them and would wait until they had had a good rest.

Winnipeg May Be Air Centre

WINNIPEG — Because of its favored position in the centre of the Dominion, Winnipeg may become the operating headquarters of trans-Canada airlines, Philip G. Johnson, vice-president, said here yesterday. Final decision will not be made until the trans-continental service is officially opened.

Operation of the trans-Canada air service will require at least 20 pilots and probably 40 if co-pilots are used, Johnson said. Twice that number will be required if two trans-continental flights a day are inaugurated.

Winnipeg may also be the training centre for pilots who will have charge of planes in the eastern region, the vice-president stated.

Raise Price On Small Sockeye

VANCOUVER — Because of a run of unexpectedly small sockeye salmon in Rivers and Smith Inlet areas this season, a mutual agreement between cannery and fishermen has raised the price to eight cents a pound instead of 7½ cents, it was announced here. Some of the fish were running as low as three pounds and it was agreed the former price did not allow fishermen fair wages.

Reports of a price war up-coast were inaccurate, according to representatives of both fishermen and cannery.

PROGRESS IN SHIP PLANS

Baron Craigmyle and Sir Edward Beatty Issue Joint Statement

LONDON—In a joint statement issued yesterday Baron Craigmyle, chairman of the Peninsular and Orient Steam Navigation Company and Sir Edward Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian-Pacific Railway Company, stated negotiations "continue to progress" in regard to improved Pacific-ocean steamship service.

The statement follows: "Negotiations continue to progress for completion of an arrangement to improve steamship service between Canada, Fiji, New Zealand and Australia. Issue to selected shipbuilders of plans and specifications for two proposed new ships, and inviting tenders for their construction, forms a routine part of negotiations now being undertaken by representatives of the interested governments and of the Canadian Australasian lines.

"There is a possibility of some unavoidable delay on account of the necessary departure from England and Dominions' ministers prior to completion of a final agreement."

Sir Edward Beatty went to London during the Imperial Conference to discuss with Empire statesmen the possibility of increasing British shipping on the Pacific ocean through construction of two modern liners.

Before sailing for home on the liner Empress of Britain he said "I am very glad to be able to say substantial progress has been made towards the conclusion of agreements for improved steamship service."

The Imperial Conference discussed the matter at length and finally decided to leave the question to the governments concerned.

SHIP FLASHED DISTRESS CALL

Japanese Steamer Senkai Maru No. 1 in Trouble On Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A steamship believed to be the Japanese vessel Senkai Maru No. 1, flashed distress signals early today, which were picked up by coastguard and commercial radio stations along the Pacific coast, in Honolulu and Japan.

The Mackay Radio later announced its station had intercepted a message from a Japanese coastal station at Otsuchi which broadcast the distress was "ended" at 4:57 a.m. M.S.T. The station did not divulge what occasioned the SOS.

The RCA station here reported it intercepted a message which indicated the ship was the Senkai Maru No. 1, a vessel listed as of 2,126 net tons, with its home port at Kobe.

Blinding Headaches Made Her Helpless

Forced to Lie Down For Hours at a Time

Other sufferers from headaches will be interested to read this letter: "Until last summer I was subject to very bad headaches. While they lasted I seemed to lose my sight and all power in my hands, and was forced to lie down for hours at a time. My aunt (who has taken Kruschen salts for 12 years with beneficial results) suggested my trying them. I did so, and I've not had any return of those headaches for months. In fact I feel quite better. I shall always take Kruschen regularly in future."

(Mrs.) M.W.

Headaches can frequently be traced to a disordered stomach, and to the unsuppressed retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. The numerous salts in Kruschen assist in the complete elimination of waste matter, resulting in a purer blood-stream, and thus helping to bring relief from headaches.

IS THROUGH WITH CHINA

Skipper of Tai Lee, Wounded By Chinese Pirates, Here to Settle Down

Capt. Frank Baylis, captain of the Chinese river steamer Tai Lee, who was wounded last September when Chinese fired on his ship in the West River, Canton delta, returned to Victoria Monday night by the Blue Funnel liner Ixion with the intention of retiring for good.

When questioned about the shooting affray at his home at 2380 Musgrave Street, Oak Bay, today, Capt. Baylis was inclined to make light of the incident.

He denied that river bandits were responsible for the shooting, classing his assailants armed with high-powered rifles as "irresponsible villagers firing indiscriminately on boats making too much wash as they sped up the river."

The Tai Lee's master still carries traces of the left shoulder wound he received when he was on the vessel's bridge guiding her up the West River.

He had hurried to the bridge at the sound of the first fusillade from the river banks when a bullet which ricocheted from a stanchion grazed his chest and shoulder, penetrated two inches of oak rail and killed the Chinese quartermaster in the pilot-house.

A woman passenger from the United States also was wounded while in her cabin as the bullets sprayed the boat.

All that Capt. Baylis could see as the bullets came aboard was the bobbing heads of the Chinese as they hid behind boulders on the river bank.

A river steamer ahead of the Tai Lee had been previously fired upon by the Chinese.

Capt. Baylis, who has been in the China coast trade and trans-Pacific service for the last 30 years, intends to retire permanently this time. He returned here in 1930 with the intention of quitting, but he got restless again and went back to China in 1932.

"I don't think I shall go back to China again," he said today. Time was when vessels plying in the China coast trade were almost wholly officered by British seamen, but now things have changed and the whites are being eliminated.

"The Chinese are educated to our standards and now want to get the foreigners out of the country," said Capt. Baylis.

Conditions were generally bad in China, he said, owing to the Communistic tendencies of certain groups.

There was a tendency for trade to improve, but continued trouble with the various military factions held the country back.

W. H. Lambert Makes Seventeenth Trip in Light Craft

Completing his seventeenth crossing of the Gulf in the old 16-ft. Peterborough canoe Tenebris, Walter H. Lambert of the King Edward High School, Vancouver, paddled into Oak Bay at 11 Sunday morning.

He proceeded on Monday to Beecher Bay, where he plans to spend the school holidays with Mrs. Lambert.

The trip from Vancouver was made in the second-hand canoe which Lambert purchased for $5.

The canoe has cruised five times around Cape Flattery and the owner has spent two holidays at Tatoosh in her since then. She has cruised over 1,600 miles in open water.

BY PACK TRAIN OVER HIGHWAY

Tourists From Alberta Praise Scenery on Big Bend Highway

REVELSTOKE, B.C.—Four Alberta tourists, the first to make the trip over the Big Bend Highway, British Columbia's uncompleted link in the trans-Canada road, arrived here Tuesday—by pack train.

Gordon Johnson and George Price of Fort Vermilion, Alta., and J. R. Dundas and Clark Owens of Allingham, Alta., arrived exactly 23 days out of Calgary and told of a leisurely trip, except for 20 miles of the uncompleted part of the road where bears visited their camps and they lost part of their outfit over a precipice.

The four young men asserted scenery along the route was "beyond description and can better be appreciated from the hurricane deck of a cayuse than from the plush seat of an automobile."

Accompanied by a dog and a three-month-old colt, the party found the going roughest over 20 miles of the incomplete section of the road north of here, which is an old trail, overgrown, they said, with devil's club and ferns higher than the horses' backs. It took them three days to travel the 20 miles.

The party is headed for Okanagan Landing and Kamloops in British Columbia's Thompson River district.

Vancouver, at 6:40 last Thursday evening. He stopped at Portler Pass Friday night and Maple Bay Saturday night.

Mr. Lambert performed the difficult task of shaving while en route in the canoe. In doing this he experienced the only mishap of the cruise when he tipped his boiling shaving water and scalded his right knee.

Vessel Total Loss in East

HALIFAX—The 2,460-ton Norwegian steamship Gaard was filling with water, Capt. Taylor reported in a message to I. H. Mathers, Norwegian consul.

The brief report said it was feared the freighter would be a total loss. She ran aground on Cerebus Rock, three miles off the Cape Breton coast, and her bow was jutting high out of the water. Capt. Taylor and his crew of 20 men were still on board the vessel, but were not believed to be in any danger, as fishing craft from Arichat were standing by.

Duplessis Repudiates Separation

AT THE FRENCH LANGUAGE CONFERENCE in Quebec City there has been talk of a "French and Catholic State on the banks of the St. Lawrence." This talk is in line with that which has been pouring from race-conscious groups in Quebec for the last couple of years, advocating separation of Quebec from the rest of Canada.

Premier Duplessis of Quebec, however, has made what The Ottawa Journal gives prominence to as an answer "from the highest quarter to these apostles of secession from Confederation." Mr. Duplessis said:

"If, unfortunately, there was anyone who would preach isolation—and I know no serious person would do so—it would be to restrict a power that is... too great to limit to one area only."

"We of the Province of Quebec and you who in the other provinces continue the traditions of the past, and of which we are rightly proud, let us say together that this perpetual tradition is the hyphen between the past and the future."

This clear-cut, splendid statement, The Journal says, coming after the cold warning of the Apostolic Delegate to Canada that "the Holy See does not take up the cause of a particular tongue," is bound to be pondered. It should help, too, to make English-speaking Canada realize that the "nationalist" or "isolationist" movement in Quebec, supported by so-called "literary" classes, has no sympathy whatever in more responsible quarters. Not a single Quebec public man of note has given the movement his allegiance, while most of the province's acknowledged leaders, including Mr. Lapointe and the veteran ex-Nationalist Leader Henri Bourassa, have rejected it as unthinkable.

An Able Official

THAT PART OF THE PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS which contains the offices under the direct administration of the Attorney-General will not be quite the same when Mr. A. V. Pineo relinquishes his duties as departmental solicitor and legislative counsel. It is all the more unfortunate that ill-health has made it necessary for him to take matters more leisurely. The Times hopes—and all his friends—and they are legion—will hope that the rest from onerous tasks with which he has been occupied for nearly a quarter of a century, under all the successive governments over James Bay during that period, will enable him to get thoroughly fit and well again.

The nature of the position which Mr. Pineo has so ably filled furnishes its own commentary. While not the head of the department with which he has been associated for so long, his was a department all to himself. We feel we shall not be offending the professional susceptibilities of our legal friends if we describe him as something in the nature of foreman of British Columbia's legal factory. To change the metaphor, he has been the unfailing support of and advisor to all the various Attorneys-General who have come and gone with the years.

It is fitting here, too, perhaps, to say on behalf of the newspapermen who have "covered the Buildings" for the last 20 years or more that if at any time a point in a bill before the Legislature was not clear to them—it is not always easy to get quickly the ear of a Cabinet Minister in the sessional period—they always knew that they could fall back on Mr. Pineo and be sure of a clear explanation of the point involved. So that his colleagues in the Parliament Buildings will share with the newspapermen the sense of personal loss the legislative counsel's retirement will occasion.

A Scout in Action

THE BOY SCOUT MOVEMENT IS highly honored because it teaches principles of right living. Now and then the practical side of scouting is brought to the attention of the public.

Betty Thompson, age seven of Pictou, Ontario, fell into the deep waters of Wellington Outlet while playing. Her ten-year-old brother, Bobby, tried to save her. She hugged him so tightly around the neck that both went under. A third child called for help. Alfred MacDonald, a Boy Scout leader, heard the cries and got to the scene in time to pull Betty out unharmed. But Bobby had gone down. Alfred dived and searched the bottom until he found him. When he got him on shore he had to apply his scout knowledge of resuscitation for seven minutes before Bobby showed any sign of life. By the time a doctor arrived he was talking.

W. E. Thompson, father of the children, said to The Pictou Times: "These Scouts are a real good thing. They saved the life of my boy and girl. MacDonald, being a Scout, knew just what to do. He had the courage to do it, but it was his training that counted when he got Bobby out. It also helped him handle Betty when she was struggling in the water. A drowning person has terrific strength and must be handled in a certain way."

More Aviation History

WE STOOD IN AWE AS THOSE Russian aviators a couple of weeks ago made that epochal flight from Russia over the North Pole to Vancouver, Wash. Now, barely giving us time to recover our composure, three more Russian fliers cross over the North Pole to better their compatriots' record by landing at the Riverside airport near Los Angeles and to set a world long-distance non-stop record flight of more than 6,200 miles.

Viewing such achievements in the light of what has happened in aviation development in the last ten years, no one can say what may not be the practical value of such pioneering flights. It was only ten years ago that Lindbergh made his New York to Paris flight. Yet so fast has been the pace of aviation development that this year's anniversary of that flight saw huge British and Pan-American flying boats preparing to establish a trans-Atlantic service, the inaugural flights of which both ways have been made within the last few days. Yesterday we recorded the completion of the first million miles of flying in regular service by the Pan-American Clippers, which now link San Francisco by air across the Pacific with the Orient. Aviation history is piling up fast these days.

Annihilation by Gas

IN THESE DAYS OF LOOSE TALK BY militarists, as well as fictioneers, about the annihilation of whole civilian populations in the next war by gas attacks from the air, it is comforting to be able to turn to such an article on the subject as that in The Saturday Evening Post by Major-General C. E. Brigham, ex-chief of the Chemical Warfare Service of the United States Army.

General Brigham comes to the conclusion (1) that the most deadly gases, the suffocation group, are not very practicable for air attack; they disperse too readily, and a puff of wind reduces the concentration below the danger point, and (2) that the skin-irritant and "tear and sneeze" gas group are not particularly dangerous in themselves and depend on hundreds of direct hits on street level, between buildings, for any effectiveness—a military impossibility.

The annihilation of cities by gas attack from the air he calls a complete impossibility. In times of war "some casualties must be expected" through air gas raids, but in the majority of cases simply remaining indoors, without masks, will be sufficient protection until the gases are dispersed. General Brigham feels that anti-aircraft artillery, pursuit planes and gas masks for persons who must be abroad are sufficient to handle the danger.

The possibilities of gas in war are so fascinating that the non-technical among us have the habit of letting their imaginations soar without limit when they write or discuss the subject. It is a good thing in these alarmist times to have a technical man who really knows bring us back to earth.

Scraps of Paper

ACCORDING TO A CABLE FROM LONDON a study just completed by a group of history scholars reveals that from the fifteenth century B.C. to the nineteenth century A.D.—or during the last 34 centuries—there have been 3,100 years of war and only 227 years of peace.

And, during the period, 8,000 peace treaties were signed—each of which was to remain binding for ever!

Notes

Some radicals are fellows who suffer too many wrongs because they claim too many rights.

Some little 12-year-old girls are still controlled by their mothers and some have permanents.

What's in a name? Well, neuritis now keeps thousands of people from having rheumatism.

Both sides say they are fighting for Spain, which reminds us of what once happened to a shirt when two college boys on the campus were fighting for it.

Most great men, a researcher reports, have had big noses. But more important is the fact that they were all ears when they had a chance to learn something new.

"Roosevelt will purge his party of conservatives," says a Washington correspondent. It would be strange to see the old Democratic south kicked out of the Democratic party.

Embracing all the provinces and territories in which economic minerals are found, the geology of approximately 45,000 square miles of territory will be studied and mapped throughout Canada during the field season of 1937 by the geological survey division of the Department of Mines and Resources. In addition another 20,000 square miles will be mapped topographically, part by aerial photography and the remainder by ground methods. In British Columbia chief attention will be given the little known areas in the central part of the province; detailed examinations in several of the producing camps; and to the surveying and mapping of areas in other sections of the province where prospecting has been active. In Alberta efforts will be directed to the mapping of oil and gas structure in the Turner Valley and other portions of the foothills, and in a large area in the extreme south-eastern portion of the province, where a survey of artesian and underground water resources will be made.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

MUNICH.

THOROUGH JOB

WHENEVER the German people undertake anything they make a job of it, whether it's a war or a sausage. They do a particularly thorough job on their beer gardens. A German beer garden lacks the glamour of a wine garden in Vienna and the mellow, smoky democracy of an English taproom, but it has a certain Teutonic thoroughness about it, with such gargantuan supplies of food and drink as we never know.

I don't mean the swagger hotel gardens on the Ottostrasse, or the open-air resorts where a German orchestra vainly tries to play American jazz and German youths and maidens vainly try to dance to it. I mean the proletarian beer garden down at the other side of Munich, where the Germans behave as they please, in the good old German style.

An American from New York and I made an investigation of proletarian beer gardens in Munich last night, purely in a scientific spirit of research. This was wise, for if we had attempted to join in the celebrations, to sample all the beer and wurst, this purely scientific record would never have been set down.

DARK ALLEY

WE TURNED off the main street of Munich (as the natives quaintly call their ancient town) and down a dark alley where issued sounds which might have been music if they had been remotely musical. We threaded our way through a moving swarm of men in green, feathered hats, short Tyrol jackets and leather trousers cut well above the knee, and girls in broad skirts and peasant blouses, but with no make-up on their faces. (Der Fruherer simply can't abide lipstick, you know.) We struggled down the dark alley, through a variety of queer smells, and finally we found our beer garden.

It consisted of a huge platform raised above the ground in the space between the old brick buildings of Munich, and a few pots of red geraniums were the only garden we could see. Almost every inch of the platform was crammed with Germans out to make a job of the celebration. Many of them were peasants in from the country for the big Munich fair; huge, shiny fellows who had brought their pigs and cows to town to exhibit for prizes. The rest were poor people from the city, with a scattering of more prosperous folk and some smart-looking business men all dressed up in nifty Tyrol costumes, leather pants and all, to show that they were Aryans, Nazis and patriots.

PROGRESS MARCHES ON FOR DOGS, BABIES AND FATHER

From a New York Correspondent

Time staggers along and civilization moves in rapid strides on Manhattan Island. First it was the Park Lane which offered dinner guests a penthouse terrace for their pet dogs, with a governess-in-attendance all the time. Then it was a brave pioneer Philadelphian who invaded the island with a canine catering service. For moderate fees, he offered to deliver Fido's one square meal a day in a hygienic truck. It has been working out fine.

A year or so ago, along came the best friend mother ever had with a daily diaper delivery service. It has been, to put it mildly, terrific. A fleet of trucks, trim and nursery-white, scoot around the city, on the heels of the stork, with fresh baby's negligee. The clientele has grown, not only by leaps and bounds, but by yards and reams and a new dividend, the rumor goes, has just been declared in Safety Pins Preferred. Well, now that both home pets have been considered by the experts in making life easier, they have just turned to our sorely neglected male sex. The new wrinkle in our behalf is "a shirt rental company," for those of us who have been disappointed when we have gone to the cupboard for a fresh change of linen. The company offers us three freshly laundered shirts at 50 cents a week and our name comes woven in the label of each.

The three shirts become exclusively the customer's when he takes on the service. For subscribing, the company will measure his shirt dimensions, have three made up to order and then call for and deliver them regularly. So what if the wife does get sore and won't do the laundry? Progress still is on the march. Life for New Yorkers becomes increasingly simpler.

GOLF, LIQUOR AND CARS WHILE ON RELIEF

From The Toronto Telegram

In city police court recently it was found that a citizen convicted of reckless driving was a relief recipient. He owned a car, had a driving permit, and had been drinking, all of which costs money.

On the same day in county court there was a somewhat similar case. A man brought before Magistrate Keith was convicted of driving while intoxicated. In his car was found a half bottle of liquor. The excuse in this case was that the accused had been playing golf with a friend. "He is on relief," his counsel pleaded.

There seems no doubt of the facts in these instances. They were given in evidence. They may afford an explanation of why relief rolls are not going down at the same rate that employment conditions are going up. Relief is and should continue to be available for the genuinely indigent, for all those who have no money and can get no work. But free maintenance is apparently an irresistible attraction for quite a number of people who could very well maintain themselves.

A carnival is featuring a man who can turn his head completely around. It is nature's first attempt to adapt the species to being at the crossroads, traffic conditions being what traffic conditions are.

Mackenzie King Among the Scots

From The Aberdeen Press and Journal

Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, was able recently to satisfy a life-long ambition.

He traced the birthplace of his paternal grandfather to Ladysford, Tyrie, and had tea in the room in which probably that pioneer was christened. Before leaving, Mr. Mackenzie King was presented with a carved wooden chair which had come from the old church of Tyrie.

It was indeed a day that the Canadian Premier will look back upon with the happiest of memories. Again and again he expressed his delight as he examined the old manor house which was his grandfather's home before he went to Canada with the Royal Horse Artillery.

"It is a great pleasure to me to visit the home of my grandparents," he said. "I only wish my father could have been here along with me."

It was by the happiest of coincidences that Mr. Mackenzie King was able to satisfy his life-long wish. When he heard that he was to be offered the freedom of Aberdeen, he immediately wrote to Lady Aberdeen asking her if she could make some inquiries as to the birthplace of his grandfather.

Lady Aberdeen got in touch with Mr. A. G. Brown, a former provost of Fraserburgh, who, after making an extensive search, discovered that it was at Ladysford that Mr. Mackenzie King's grandfather, Mr. John King, had spent his early days. It was only a few days ago that Mr. Brown received conclusive evidence from Register House in Edinburgh that Ladysford had actually been the home of Mr. John King.

The Dominion Premier could hardly wait to visit the old place.

They motored to the house, which is surrounded by a lovely garden, descended on the surprised occupant, Mrs. Davidson, tenant of the farm of Ladysford, for an hour Mr. Mackenzie King explored the building and its surroundings, being charmed with the old-world atmosphere of the place.

He was particularly interested in some old stone steps near the house which served as a mounting and dismounting place for ponies.

The building, which is at least 200 years old, is built very solidly of granite, and roofed with old Scots slate. A two-story house with two side wings projecting forward, it has that substantial appearance typical of the old manor houses of Scotland. It was in this house that Mr. King's grandfather was baptized on May 3, 1814, and when Mrs. Davidson insisted on her distinguished guest having tea in the room in which probably the ceremony was performed, Mr. Mackenzie King's delight knew no bounds.

TRAIL OF '88

To the Editor:—In keeping with Victoria's anniversary celebrations, the Department of Public Works have given View Royal a monument. After two fatal highway accidents, they constructed our much-sought-after sidewalk. We still walk on the road, patiently awaiting the distribution of snowshoes to make it possible to keep on the surface of four inches of loose sand, washed with thin coal tar.

Why not send the road foreman of this section into Saanich to get a few lessons on the construction of sidewalks?

EARLY MUSIC IS DISCUSSED

F. T. C. Wickett Speaks On Music of Sixteenth Century Period

An address on music of the 16th and early 17th centuries by F. T. C. Wickett was the highlight of the morning session programme at the summer school yesterday.

The music of that period was essentially polyphonic or contrapuntal, embodying a democratic style of writing with all parts being of equal melodic interest, the speaker said. There was great rhythmic freedom between the voices and there were no bar lines or definite periodic accent. He stressed the importance of being able to hear two or more melodies at the same time.

The second part of the lecture dealt with music of the period, compared with modern part songs. The speaker interestingly discussed masses, motets and madrigals. He said there were three forms of madrigals: The madrigal proper, which was contrapuntal, the ayre, a composition with the principal melody given to the upper part, more homophonic than the previous type, and the ballet in which the dance rhythm prevailed.

Among the great composers of the period were Lassus the Belgian; Morales and Vittoria Spanish composers; Palestrina and Willaert, Italians; Wilbye, Weelker, Morley Tallis, Byrd, Dowland and Gibbons, English composers of great repute in their day.

The latter part of the address covered early keyboard music, the invention of recitative and the opera, and a general discussion on the gradual disuse of the modes and the increasing popularity of the major and minor scales.

An extensive talk on architecture by W. B. Weston was given Monday morning. In the course of his address Mr. Weston expressed the idea that standards of beauty changed from age to age, being influenced by the changing needs of society.

This morning he discussed sculpture. This evening an illustrated lecture on "How a Fresco Painting is Made" will be given by Mrs. A. M. Young, director of art education, Pioneer Art Museum, Seattle.

Saturday afternoon a party of students will journey to the Gonzales Meteorological Observatory, headed by H. L. Campbell.

A NEW CANADIAN PRODUCT

THOUGH it is used extensively in the manufacture of pulp and paper and in many other industries, sulphur has not hitherto been produced in Canada. During the last few years, Canadian imports of this important commodity have averaged over 150,000 tons a year.

In 1930, The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company commenced construction of a large fertilizer plant near Trail, B.C. This plant, which cost over $15,000,000, has been operating successfully for several years and has converted waste gases from the company's lead and zinc plants into a complete line of nitrogenous fertilizers. Continuing its successful efforts to utilize these waste gases, the company recently perfected a new process for the recovery of sulphur.

The first sulphur unit is now in operation. It produces a remarkably pure elemental sulphur at the rate of 40 tons a day. A second unit of similar capacity is practically completed and will be in operation before mid-summer.

Thereafter, a production rate of about 25,000 tons per year will be maintained. A ready market for this output exists in the Pacific coast pulp and paper industry alone.

Support Claim For Bridge Aid

Government Behind Request of T. Reid, M.P., For Bridge Money From Ottawa

Representations being made by Thomas Reid, M.P. for New Westminster, to the Dominion Government for a 50 per cent contribution towards the construction of the New Westminster Bridge, are receiving the support of the provincial government, Premier Pattullo said yesterday.

Mr. Reid's representations are supplementing previous advances by provincial officials, the Premier said, and further requests would be made to the Dominion when he goes to Ottawa in September.

Mr. Reid is requesting federal assistance on the grounds the bridge forms part of the trans-Canada highway system.

As he has said before, the Dominion would agree to assist the bridge would become a free one and not a toll bridge as at present planned.

at Fall Fair

A Saskatchewan entry will lend added competition this year to the six-horse team events, which headline the heavy horse section of the Victoria Fair, W. H. Mearns, exhibition secretary, announced today.

A. F. Murray of Young, Saskatchewan, will be the entrant. He will compete against a field well known to Victoria lovers of the heavy animals. Oregon will be represented by two drivers, A. C. Ruby with his crack sextette and D. F. Burge, Albany, Oregon, while Vancouver will have an equal number in the show.

Robert Thorburn, Vancouver, and the Crystal Dairy will strive for honors, while Mr. Murray's entry promises to give all four of the old hands a good run.

The teams will take part in the big livestock parade, usually held on Citizen's Day.

Woman Dies In Fair Accident

At Edmonton Exhibition
Three Fall From Ferris Wheel

EDMONTON—Mrs. Mary Bishop, 28, Edmonton, was killed, her sister, Stella Merko, 13, Radway, was slightly injured, and Helen Reminsky, 12, Radway, gravely injured Tuesday night when they fell from a ferris wheel operating on the midway at the Edmonton Summer Exhibition.

The three were riding in one seat of the wheel, one of a set of four giant, high-speed ferris wheels operated by the Royal American Shows.

As the seat in which the three sat neared the top of the turn, spectators saw Mrs. Bishop and the Reminsky girl plunge out and hurtle to the ground. The other girl hung on until the seat neared the ground, when she slipped off, escaping with a bump on the head.

University of Alberta engineering experts were requested to make a structural examination of the device.

JAIL TERM IS GIVEN INDIAN

Arthur Samson Sentenced at Prince George to Two Years

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP)—Arthur Samson, Bear Lake, B.C., Indian, today was under sentence of two years' imprisonment for the wounding of Hugo Stalberg May 20. He was tried Monday before Magistrate H. E. A. Robertson. The shooting took place 30 miles northeast of Fish Lake, headwaters of the Finlay River, in northern British Columbia.

Alex. Bailey testified that Samson came to him six days after the shooting and said Stalberg had thrown three of Samson's beaver traps into the bush. Continuing Samson's story, Bailey said an altercation followed in which Samson feared he was going to be killed. He told Bailey he fired at Stalberg and saw him fall. Later Stalberg got in his canoe and crossed the river. Samson then headed for the camp of his father-in-law, Bob Bailey, and told Alex., son of Bob, to get a policeman as he wanted to tell him about it.

(On July 9 the Canadian Press reported erroneously that Bob Bailey had been arrested for the shooting of Hugo Stalberg. The Canadian Press regrets the error and is glad to make this correction.)

Mayor Miller's statement followed the move of Thomas H. Hurley, counsel for the Chinese, who said Tuesday he would take legal action if the money were not refunded.

The bail in question was part

Local Girl Bride In China

Miss Margie Fraser Married To Mr. G. A. Churchill

Miss Margaret Chisholm Fraser, daughter of Mrs. J. S. C. Fraser of St. Charles Street, Victoria, and the late Mr. Fraser, was the lovely bride at an interesting wedding solemnized at the Church of Christ the King, Shanghai, China, on June 21. The bridegroom was Mr. Geoffrey Aylward Churchill, only son of Mrs. J. H. R. Hance, Hongkong, and the late Dr. J. A. Churchill of Swatow, China.

The marriage was solemnized by Rev. Father MacDonald in the presence of a large congregation, and followed by a civil ceremony at H.M. Consul-General in the morning. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers, making a lovely setting for the ceremony.

The bride was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. G. C. Large, and was attended by her sisters, Mrs. Large and Miss Frances Fraser, and by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Beatrice Hance, Hongkong.

BRIDE IN SATIN
She wore a frock of white georgette over satin cut on Grecian lines, deeply shirred at the back, and extended to a train, the shirred puff sleeves were caught into shirred cuffs, and the waist was girdled with a twist of satin and georgette. The veil of tulle was worn cap-fashion beneath a twist of georgette and satin, with clusters of orange blossom attached, and she carried a large sheaf of Arum lilies.

Her attendants wore attractive robes de style of pale pink organdie over satin, with long full skirts, trimmed with four rows of scalloped organdie above the hem, and on the cape sleeves, and with sashes of organdie. They also wore wide-brimmed Leghorn hats trimmed with pink satin ribbon, and carried shower bouquets of gladioli.

Mr. N. M. Macintosh was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. D. J. C. Stewart, G. T. Read and G. Davis.

RECEPTION HELD
Mrs. Fraser entertained at a large reception later at her home, 153 Western Road, which was decorated with an assortment of summer flowers and bamboo. The hostess was dressed in navy and white printed georgette with matching accessories, and was assisted by Mrs. Hance, in vintage red lace, and they both wore corsage sprays of roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Churchill left later for a honeymoon in Japan, the bride traveling in a pale blue linen and white costume, and will make their home in Shanghai on their return, where the bridegroom is connected with the Asiatic Petroleum Company.

Lonesome because their husbands spend too much time in clubs, women of Melbourne, Australia, have formed a club of their own, but will have monthly guest nights for their spouses.

Local Women Heard At Conference

Miss Margaret Clay Speaks On Youth and Peace

VANCOUVER—The stupidity, greed and lack of vision of past generations was responsible for the position in which the youth of the world find themselves, declared Miss Margaret Clay of Victoria yesterday in an address before the fourth triennial Pan-Pacific Women's Conference.

The Victoria delegate, international topic director of the P.P.W.A., called for assistance for youth from the "older people" to help them build a body of "sympathetic, informed and intelligent opinion in their own international problems so they can think and work out things for themselves."

Speaking on youth movements for peace, Miss Clay said: "We have heard so much of the 'cocksureness' of youth, of their ruthless riding roughshod over us and their unwillingness to take advice—but can we blame them when we realize that it is the stupidity, greed, lack of vision of our own and past generations which have placed them in the deplorable position in which they find themselves today."

OTHER SPEAKERS
Other speakers at the conference today included Miss Idelle Wilson of Victoria, who outlined the organization and development of Canadian youth congresses, stressing particularly the findings of the committee on world peace at the recent Montreal congress; Miss E. Philbin of Portland, who told of the international work of the Girl Scouts, Reserves and Daughters of Job.

Several delegates from southern Pacific and European areas were heard, including Mrs. Kenneth Gordon of New Zealand, Miss Melyu Chen of China and Miss Kathleen Courtney of London.

Mrs. Carlisle McDonnell of Australia, Mrs. Stuart Jamieson of Vancouver and Miss Courtney spoke on "Traffic in Arms."

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS
Delegates to the conference know their objective "but have not acquired the technique, or in many cases, the necessary goodwill to reach it," Mrs. Tsune Gauntlett said in her presidential address at the official opening of the conference.

"What is needed today is an entire change in the mentality of all nations," the Japanese wife of an English professor in Tokio said. "We are here to strengthen the bonds of the Pacific peoples and to study their problems."

Mrs. Gauntlett also dealt with the economic question, declaring it was the "basic cause of disturbance in the world today. Well-balanced distribution of commodities and purchasing power would to a great extent solve the problem of starvation and therefore the causes of war," she said.

Miss Kathleen Courtney, honorary delegate from London, England, followed Mrs. Gauntlett to tell delegates the present obstacles to international co-operation were fear and a feeling of insecurity which could only be overcome by study and the promotion of understanding and sympathy between nations.

"There must be a readiness to make sacrifices of national prestige and privilege for the sake of international appeasement," the Englishwoman said.

At the official opening at which Mrs. Gauntlett and Miss Courtney spoke, the delegates were welcomed to Canada by Dean Mary L. Bollett, Vancouver, chairman of the Canadian section.

All Saints' Church, Port Alberni, was the scene of a quiet wedding last evening when Vera Gertrude Hanes of Victoria was united in marriage to Mr. Edwin G. Brentnall of Port Alberni, eldest son of Mr. Garnet E. Brentnall and the late Mrs. Brentnall of London, England. Rev. Glen Stevenson officiated. Both principals, who are well known here and at Victoria, will spend their honeymoon at Sproat Lake and will reside at Port Alberni.

Came Rebekah Lodge No. 45 will hold their installation of officers at the Odd Fellows Hall, Douglas Street, tomorrow at 8.

GALLI-CURCI TO SING HERE
Famous Artiste to Give Recital October 1

Mme Galli-Curci, world-famous soprano, will give a recital at the Royal Victoria Theatre on October 1, according to an interesting announcement made today.

Her last appearance in Victoria was about ten years ago, at the same theatre, when an audience which overflowed on to the stage acclaimed her art. At that time she was a coloratura singer, but since the gottre operation which she underwent a few years ago, her voice has taken on a beautiful lyric quality, and according to the critics, is fuller and rounder and more appealing than ever.

Mme Galli-Curci is coming to Victoria in the course of a continent-wide tour of the United States.

Gay Dinner To Wives Of Lawyers

While the delegates to the B.C. Law Society held their closing banquet in the ballroom of the Empress Hotel last night, their wives were enjoying themselves at a dinner arranged in their honor in the Duke of Kent suite. Mrs. Chas. E. Wilson convened the affair and presided at the gathering, being assisted in the arrangements by Mrs. J. R. McIlre, Mrs. H. G. S. Heisterman, Mrs. E. H. M. Foot, Mrs. H. C. V. Macdonald, Mrs. P. S. Lampman and Mrs. E. V. Finland. Covers were laid for eighty at the beautifully decorated tables, arranged in horseshoe fashion, with green and yellow damask cloths alternating. Exquisite bowls of flowers in mixed colors were flanked by large silver candelabra bearing tapers in harmonizing colors. A novel note was added to the decorations by the miniature "barristers" and "K.C.s." complete with curled wigs, gowns and bags slung over their shoulders, representing the skilful work of Mrs. Wilson. The toast to the King was proposed by Mrs. Wilson.

Co-operative Movement Best

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont.—Canadian housewives spend $12,000,000 weekly on groceries, Mrs. Leonard March told the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, in convention here yesterday afternoon. She was discussing the co-operative movement in Denmark and Sweden and suggested that much of the money is spent on inferior goods, produced under wrong conditions. Mrs. March touched on the spread of the co-operative buying movement in the two European countries.

Local Work Is Admired Abroad

English Hairdressers Applaud Firth Brothers' Permanent Waving

English hairdressers have been much impressed by the artistic nature of the permanent waving done by Firth Brothers, popular hairdressers, of 635 Fort Street.
Admiration for the splendid work of the Victoria firm is expressed in a letter received by Firth Brothers from a former customer, now resident in England.

An excerpt from the letter
reads as follows:

"Dear Sirs:—I had a permanent done by you over a year ago,
just before I left for England, and have always wanted to come back to tell you how, when I visited a hairdresser near London, he was so taken with it he inquired where it had been done, for, he said, 'that fellow knew his job, all right.' As a Canadian-born, I was very proud to be able to say that it was done in Canada and on Vancouver Island. Several others admired it as well, and I thought, as I was writing to you, you might like to know it had been appreciated, and you may be quite sure I have spread the news."

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

1. Is it all right for a girl to arrange a "double date" without first telling the man with whom she has a date for the evening?

2. Should a girl load down her
"date" with her compact, lipstick and comb for the evening?

3. Is it good taste for a girl to attend a public dance unescorted?

4. Beyond saying, "I'm sorry, but I already have another engagement," is it necessary for a girl to explain to a man why she cannot accept his invitation?

5. When an usher leads a couple down a theatre aisle, should the woman precede or follow the man?

What would you do if—

You have taken a girl to a large private dance and neither of you know the guests of honor? Would you (a) Avoid speaking to them unless a friend happened along to introduce you? (b) Introduce yourself to the gentleman and let him introduce his lady? (c) Expect the girl you are with to introduce herself first to the woman guests?

ANDREW and IMOGENE

By ROE FULKERSON

"Andrew, I think I will start

nagging you like Esther nags

Jack," said Imogene gravely. "He gives her everything on earth she wants."

"How would you like to have me bend you over my knee and spank you?" demanded Andrew.

"Would you?" asked Imogene curiously.

"I would!"

"I saw in the paper where a man did that to his wife," said

Imogene thoughtfully.

"She probably deserved a sock

in the eye," said Andrew. "I bet

she nagged him into it."

"I wouldn't like what you call a sock in the eye."

"Even less than a spanking?"

"Certainly. One spanking babies.

Every woman likes to be babyed.

I don't believe any woman these days would enjoy that cave man trick of knocking her around.

That puts her too much on an equality with men. The mere fact that some of our athletic girls might retaliate with an upper cut to the eyebrow, or wherever upper cuts go, has no bearing on the matter."

"Women diet and take exercises and do all sorts of things to keep themselves slim and youthful looking, but we don't want to be considered our husbands'

equals in physical strength."

"We all like to feel that our husbands are big, strong men who can fight in defence of us and our babies, but when it comes to their treatment of us, we expect it to be a combination of the masterful and merciful."

"Of course it would be very undignified to be spanked by one's husband for nagging, but I would rather be spanked like a baby than hit in the eye like another man. There is quite a distinction."

"I would be certain to leave you if you did either, but I would leave you with a sneaking admiration for you if you spanked me, and an undying hatred for you if you hit me. Hitting me would mean that you did not feel that I was a delicate, fragile thing who should be protected."

"Perhaps I have deserved

spanking a lot of times since we have been married. I have got out of sorts and nagged you into quarrels which I knew would make me more miserable, and I wanted to be more miserable. I have flirted with other men when

I knew you didn't like them, and did it entirely to annoy you, because all women like to hurt the men they love just to give them a realization of their power over them. I have stayed at bridge games and matinees and taken a chance on the cook's producing the kind of dinner a good husband like you deserves.

"I have committed all these sins, and if they are not spankable sins, then I don't know what they are. But I don't want you to spank me ever. Will you promise?"

"Of course I will, silly!"

laughed Andrew. "I can't even imagine doing such a thing."

"That's a real relief!"

"Did you think for a moment

I would?"

"I was quite sure you wouldn't."

"Then why did you want the reassurance?"

"Oh, I'm just a foolish woman!" she sighed. "I know that if you did turn me over your knee and spank me, I would be sure to tell some of my women friends about it. They are always telling me what masterful men they are married to, and how they don't dare do this and that, and

I realize that if you spanked me,

I just couldn't keep it from them."

"Are women crazy?" demanded

Andrew, laughing.

"My goodness, yes!" assured

Imogene. "Didn't you know that?"

DEADLOCK IN

INDIA ENDED

Congress Party Is Invited to Form Ministries in Six

Provinces

BOMBAY—Provincial governors have invited the Congress

Party to form new ministries in all six provinces where the party won a legislative majority in the spring elections. The provinces are Madras, the Central Provinces, Bihar, the United Provinces, Orissa and Bombay.

In each case minority ministries resigned to make way for the new governments. The minority cabinets were formed when the Congress refused to accept office unless Governors would give assurances they would not use certain authority placed in their hands under the new Indian constitution which went partly into effect April 1.

Observers said the governors' invitation Tuesday apparently ended the constitutional deadlock, although the attitude of the Congress to the constitution remains to be seen in view of a declaration by Pandit Nehru at Allahabad on July 11. On that occasion the Congress Party leader stated that "to end the constitution and have a constituent assembly is our main objective."

Acceptance of office does not mean acceptance of the slave constitution by one iota. It means a fight against the coming federation by all means inside and outside the legislatures."

The recent decision of the Congress Party to take office followed an appeal by the Viceroy,

the Marquess of Linlithgow, who stated that while the Government of India Act reserved certain powers to the provincial governors, there was no intention of using these powers in such a manner as to negate popular government.

States boundary in the heart of

The rain fell Tuesday in an area stretching from Assiniboia to

Canadians Shoot Well In King's At Bisley

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

OVER in Vancouver this week, around the spots where they talk of the thoroughbred or watch them run, they are handing the palm to the little Swiss hardboot, Emil Spörri. By the ordinary standards for lads of the whip and spur, Spörri is an old man. He's been legering them around B.C. tracks for ages it seems, but when he climbs aboard a prancing steed the years just melt away. He hasn't lost the dash of youth, that quick decision and that bit of recklessness which gives a rider the edge in a tight spot.

The years of booting have not dimmed his eyes to the knotholes on the rail which so often mean the difference between defeat and victory. These things, combined with his excellent judge of pace, gained from long experience, have made him almost unbeatable during the early part of the current B.C. racing season.

Look, for a minute, over his record for the first seven days over the mile circuit at the Lansdowne, Lulu Island, track. Spörri went to the post 44 times with good and bad ones. Thirteen times he saluted the judges on top, on ten occasions he rambled home in the second slot, four being whisker decisions, and five times he was third. Only 16 of his mounts were out of the money. Two days he scored triple victories.

Now that's not bad riding when a man is taking six and seven engagements a day. A winning ratio of 30 per cent, longshots and favorites, come what may, and barely a third of his horses out of the money.

And this is just a little tip for the punters. If you had wagered a deuce to win on each of Spörri's mounts in that first week you would show the handsome profit of $79.95 on an $88 investment, nearly 100 per cent. The total pay-off on his 13 winning mounts was $167.95.

The ponies have just started running at Brighouse and the Swiss veteran seems to like this oval just as well. The first day he edged out a nose decision with Frank Beban's good gelding, Big Pine, and on Monday popped down with two winners, three seconds and a fourth with his six mounts.

And, according to Johnny Park, who experts on the races for The Vancouver Province, Spörri hates publicity.

There's romance, too, about Spörri and his horses. The racing fans will remember that inseparable Spörri-Shasta Dream combination which jumped from the claiming to the handicap division a couple of years ago and tin-canned some of the best stock in these parts. His greatest love, though, was old Seth's Bacon. Just a cheap claimer, old Seth knew his rider's every command and the hundreds who have seen the two come charging from way back in the stretch, speeding past horses like an express train by telephone poles, will understand why the veteran rider feels that way.

BOXLA CHAMPS LOSE

MIMICO, Ont.—In the biggest upset of the Ontario Lacrosse Association season Mimico Mountaineers last night defeated Orillia Terriers, Canadian champions for three successive seasons, 20 to 3. The winners led 9 to 0 at half time.

Drop Five Points Apiece in First Stage of Rifle Classic Kier Well Down

BISLEY CAMP, England (CP)—Young Lieut. G. S. Matchett of Hamilton, and Sgt. T. A. Jensen of Innisfail, Alta., led Canadians in the opening stage of the King's Prize today, with fine scores of 100 out of a possible 105, assuring them of places in Friday's second stage of the classic of the Empire meeting at Bisley. More than 1,100 marksmen were in the first stage, which today's firing will reduce to 300.

Jensen led Canadians at the two-thirds mark. He had 33 at 200 yards and a possible 35 at 500 yards for a two-thirds score of 68 out of a possible 70.

At the 200-yard range of the King's, young Matchett and Lieut. C. F. Kennedy of Hilden, N.S., each dropped only one shot to the inner, scoring 45 out of a possible 55. Five more Canadians were grouped at 33—the veteran RSM. George Emslie of Toronto, Sgt. William Ewing of Montreal, Jensen, Sgt. Jack Sailer of Edmonton, and Capt. T. M. Sieniewsky of Halifax.

Lieut. Steve Johnson of Calgary and Lieut. W. J. Young of Toronto, shooting along with the official team, scored 32. Squadded later, Lieut. Wayne Mackenzie of Ottawa led all Canadians at the first range with highest possible score of 35. Major A. C. Lucas of Toronto came in with 34. Sgt. M. F. Dillon of Ottawa and Lieut. G. A. Molecey of Vancouver had 33. Capt. S. W. Graham, Toronto, and Sgt. Jack Trainor, Toronto, 32. Lieut. N. Colville, Vancouver, and Pte. N. Lemieux, Westmount, Que., 31. Capt. A. W. Hunt, Winnipeg, and Sgt. James Kier, Vancouver, dropped to 30.

SCORES POSSIBLE

Coming back to the 500-yard range Jensen plugged seven bull's eyes for a possible 35.

Molecey scored 34 at 500 yards for 67 and Matchett 33 for the same total. Emslie had 33 for 66, Kennedy 32 for 66, Lucas 32 for 66, Sieniewsky 33 for 66. Mackenzie slipped to 31, but still had a two-thirds mark of 66.

Dillon had 32 for 65, Graham 33 for 65, Johnson 33 for 65, and Trainor 33 for 65. Ewing scored only 31 at 500 yards for 64. Kier had 33 for 63, Colville 32 for 63 and Sailer 30 for 63. Hunt had 32 for 62, and Lemieux 29 for 60. Before riflemen went to the butts there was a tie-shoot for the Times silver trophy and gold badge and medal, and this was captured by Capt. Donald Bisset of Guernsey. The Times match was fired Saturday.

SEATTLE—A sensational Seattle middleweight, young Al Hostak, was on the war-path after champion Freddie Steele's crown today. He knocked out former champion Eddie "Babe" Risko of Syracuse, N.Y., with a smashing right hand blast to the jaw in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round headliner of a boxing card here last night.

The man from whom Steele won the title last year, yet failed to put to sleep, just couldn't keep away from the booming fists of the climbing youngster. Once in the fourth, Hostak connected with a torrid right, and Risko went down for an eight-count. Then, after a compar-

The calmest man in Brooklyn when Henry Emmett Manush was left off the National League's all-star team was Henry Emmett Manush.

Brooklyn thought Henry Emmett (Heinie to you), a National League "rookie" after 14 seasons in the junior circuit, richly deserved a place on the honor squad. At 35—he'll be 36 next Tuesday—Heinie might not be quite so fast as in 1926, when he won the American League batting championship, but at least he was powdering the ball.

Heinie just went on about his business, such as the ninth inning home run yesterday that gave the Dodgers a 2 to 1 decision over the Boston Bees.

Joe Moore was the big gun in a 20-hit New York Giant attack that required ten innings to nose out the Phils, 11 to 10. The last of

Longshoremen Score Victory

Hand New Method 4 to 1 Setback in A Section Soft-Ball Play-off

Taking the lead in the first frame on Ken Fleming's home run, which netted them two runs, and staying in front to the finish, Victoria Longshoremen softballers took New Method Laundry nine into camp, 4 to 1, when they met at the Athletic Park last night in the first game of the best of three series for the right to meet Painter's Bruins in the A section lower island final.

The stevedores played good ball behind the fine hurling of Archie McBride, who allowed five scattered hits.

When Fleming came to bat in the opening frame he laced a hard drive to left field and raced around the four sacks, scoring Erickson in front of him. The freight jugglers tallied another run in the second and one in the third to finish their scoring. The New Method Club got their only run in the second.

Eric Moir, New Method pitcher, was got to for eleven safeties. The Longshoremen pulled off some snappy plays and turned in an almost errorless exhibition.

Score by innings:

New Method.....010000000-1

Longshoremen 211000000x-4

Batteries—Moir and Knapp; A. McBride and M. McBride.

Meeting at Victoria West Park in a B-section playoff fixture for second and third place, Marigold defeated Saanichton, 4 to 2. A sixth-inning attack that resulted in a trio of runs gave the Marigold club victory. Previous to that Saanichton was ahead, 2 to 1.

MAT CARD COMPLETED

Six Leading Heavies Booked For Saturday Night's Wrestling Show

Abe "King Kong" Kashey, rough-and-ready Syrian matman, will make his first Victoria appearance Saturday night when he grapples in the semi-main bout on promoter Fred Richardson's show at the Tillicum gym.

Darna Ostapavitch, who hails from Poland, has been booked to grapple with the Syrian, who is former holder of the Metropolitan A.A.U. championship.

Kashey is a good wrestler but prefers to play the badman role. Ostapavitch is a clean wrestler. These two are billed to fight over the five eight-minute-round route.

Heading the attractive card will be Billy Hanson, Salt Lake City, and Bill Middlekauff, rugged Russian. They are billed to wrestle eight 10-minute rounds or the best of three falls.

Chief Thunderbird, Saanich Indian, back from a successful invasion of Pacific Coast mat circles, will show in the special event of five six-minute rounds. His opponent will be Albert Mills, Toronto.

Two local youngsters will battle it out in the opening scrap, which will start at 8.45.

Wonders of the Ant World

3 LEAF-CUTTING "FARMERS"
Of all the wonders in the ant world, none is greater than the life and work of the Sauba ants of Brazil and other countries of South America. These insects have several popular names, including "leaf-cutting ants" and "mushroom-growers."

Leaf-cutting ants at work

The home of a Sauba ant or colony may be 15 or 20 feet wide and three feet high. Above it are perhaps a dozen "craters" set close to one another. Leading down from the bottoms of the "craters" are holes an inch wide or more. Ants keep going down, one after another carrying cut leaves.

"Since I wanted to see the inside of the nest," wrote a Swiss scientist, "I asked an Indian who had a spade to make an opening in the central part. After he had put in his spade two or three times, some of the ants began to rush toward us. The Indian threw down his spade and ran."

"In a few seconds, I was covered with ants. They bit me and drew blood from my hands, face and legs, and I followed the Indian."

The large ants amongst the leaf-cutters are about two-thirds of an inch long. One of their duties is to serve as guards of the "door-ways" into the nest. Another group is of medium size, about one-third of an inch long. The smallest group is composed of tiny ants only one-sixteenth of an inch long, or about the size of a pin-head.

The large and middle-sized ants swarm into trees of many kinds, and cut pieces from the leaves. The cutting is done with their "saw-edged" jaws. Usually it is performed on cloudy days or at night.

Hundreds and hundreds of ants, each carrying a piece of leaf, march back to the nest. They follow trails, about half an inch wide. Sometimes a trail is more than 300 feet long. Often there are stops along the way, because the roadway is blocked or because the ant grows tired. One ant took an hour and 10 minutes to transport a leaf piece 80 feet.

The ants do not eat the leaves. The pieces are taken into the nest, and there they are chewed up. By chewing a bit of leaf, the ant produces a pellet about the size of a grain of sand. Then the pellet is pressed against the walls of the underground chamber. Next comes the most amazing act of all. Queen ants place spores in the "soil" which has been made from the chewed-up leaves. The spores cause the growth of a fungus or mold which is related to the mushroom.

In little rooms under the ground, each about the size of a football, the ants plant and raise the fungus. The ants eat it and greatly enjoy it. It is their most important food. Their custom of raising it explains the popular name, "mushroom-growers."

Some parts of North America have ants of much the same kind. Leaf-cutting and fungus-growing ants are found in Mexico and some southern states of the United States—especially in Texas.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"
THURSDAY, JULY 15, 1937

Adverse planetary aspects, according to astrology, rule today, when there may be influences which disrupt plans and disturb progress.
The wise of both sexes will carry on routine affairs without any deflection from usual channels of activity. They will avoid risks of every sort.
Despite much prophecy on the part of financial and military experts, surprising events are to mark the autumn. The stars seem to presage what is unexpected in many spheres of human interest.
This is a day for marking time and delaying any important step in business or personal affairs. It is well to wait on events that are close at hand.
Persons who exercise authority may expect abuses that require wise decisions. Human destiny is to be affected in devious ways which demand careful guidance.
Women should be exceedingly cautious today and in the evening should beware of love interest. Suitors may be more impetuous than trustworthy.
The new moon on the sixth of next month is read as ominous. There is a portent of a scandal in a foreign country which will have distant echoes.
Speculation will continue to disturb those who read financial portents. While a few new fortunes grow many losses are foretold.
Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of plenty and yet financial anxieties are pressed. Loans and mortgages may be disappointing.
Children born on this day probably will be fond of success and inclined to demonstrate their prosperity in extravagant modes of living. Subjects of this sign usually enjoy the good things of life.
William Winter, author, critic and journalist, was born on this day, 1874. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Rembrandt, painter, 1639; George Peter Alexander Healy, portrait painter, 1818; William C. Whitely, statesman, 1861; and Henry Edward Manning, Roman Catholic Cardinal, 1808.

IT IS A CURIOUS thing that cheerfulness has never been rated as a feminine virtue, or even mentioned as an attraction. Sympathy, tenderness, faithfulness and an almost superhuman ability to love have ever been held the qualities that most adorn the sex. Poets and novelists have alike vied in exploiting the charms of neurotic ladies who burst into tears upon the slightest provocation.

Why it has been considered an asset to a woman to be a free weeper, nobody knows, since in reality she is a damp, moist, depressing body to have around. Nevertheless, we have all been victims to the theory that there is something sweet and fine in a woman being surrounded by an aura of gentle melancholy and "never getting over" griefs and that, on the contrary, the woman who is gay and fun-loving is probably no better than she should be. Women always look down their noses at other women whose laughs are hung on a hair trigger.

All of this is, of course, tommyrot, and it is time that we realized that instead of cheerfulness being a sort of excess baggage to a woman, it is the most important quality that she can possibly possess. It is a charm to conjure with. It is the secret of popularity. It will do more to get her a husband and keep him after she gets him than either beauty or wit. It will make her a success in business and, no matter where she goes, or what she does, it will always be a prop and staff to lean upon.

In a world that is full of trouble we all turn to cheerful people as the flower turns to the sun. We crave the companionship of those who can lighten our gloom with their brightness, who can dispel our sadness by their own high spirits, who can put a little of their own joy of living into us. "This sad old earth must borrow its mirth," sang Ella Wheeler Wilcox long ago. It is true for all of us. We are all so poor in happiness that we must borrow it from our fellow creatures, and to no one are we more indebted than we are to those women who lend us from their store of good cheer.

There are no greater missionaries than these cheerful women who go about diffusing light and gaiety. No matter what their own private difficulties may be, they never show it in their faces. They never tell you a hard-luck story. They wear the smile that won't come off. They always have something pleasant to say, some funny story to tell, some joke that sends you chuckling on your way, feeling that God is in His heaven and all's well with the world.

As a wife, the cheerful woman is like the paragon of the Scriptures, her price is above rubies. Every man has plenty of troubles and anxieties and discouragements in his contact with the outside world. If at night he comes home to a wife who is also sunk in woe, it drags him down into the bottomless pit. But, if he has a wife who is gay and cheerful, who can make him laugh and forget his troubles, who can fill him full of hope from her own overflowing optimism and who can buck him up with her faith in him, he can stand anything.

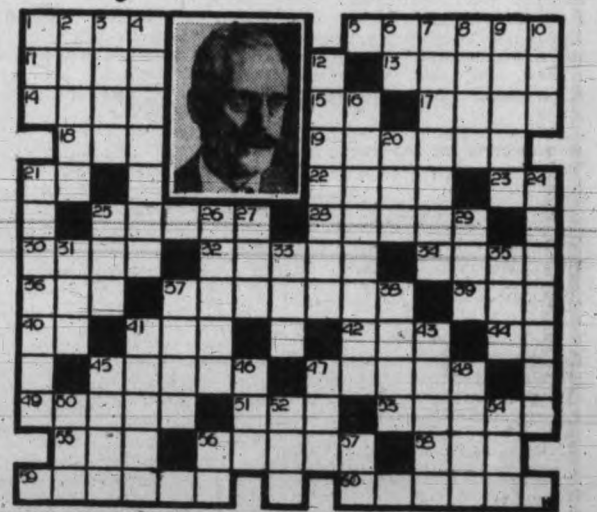

I doubt if any one of the men who committed suicide during the depression when they lost their fortunes had cheerful wives. And I am sure that many a man did kill himself because he could not bear his wife's despair added to his own.

The best gift that God can give children is a cheerful mother, because the one thing a mother needs more than anything else in the world is a funnybone. If she has that, she can laugh off many a situation out of which a tragedy can be made. She can correct youngsters' faults far more effectively with a joke than she can by nagging.

And if the mother is a cheerful woman, she can take the sting out of poverty for her children, because the poorest meal is a feast if it is flavored with laughter. And, more than that, because she meets hardships with a smile and has a courage and an optimism that never fails, she sends her children forth into the world to fight gallantly the battle of life and take from it what they want.

It is the cheerful people who succeed. The pessimists are licked before they start.

Flight Success Thrills Russia

Press Praises Moscow-California Trio; Tribute From U.S. Ambassador

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet officials said today they were "imensely pleased and thrilled" over the successful outcome of the second Soviet trans-polar flight to the United States.

The flight committee, which started preparations to claim officially the world distance record for the three airmen, described the speed and distance of the expedition as "surprising."

United States Ambassador Joseph E. Davies issued the following statement:

"The significance of the second flight is not so much that it breaks the world record as that it takes the first flight out of the accident or stunt character."

"It indicates that behind the imagination, daring and boldness of these splendid aviators there is a thorough, scientific, efficient and able organization directing aviation activities in the Soviet Union."

Newspapers also paid tribute to the fliers and to the organizers of the venture and intimated other flights were in prospect shortly, but gave no specific information.

The accounts said the fliers were more than four hours ahead of schedule.

Boston Writer Is Impressed

So impressed with what he has seen of Victoria that he is already talking of "staking a claim" here, Roland J. Sawyer, Jr., Boston, member of the editorial staff of The Christian Science Monitor, left for Vancouver this afternoon with his bride to continue a 7,000-mile honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer arrived here yesterday after driving from Boston to Montreal, then making a leisurely trip across Canada by way of the Great Lakes. They will return through Lake Louise and Banff.

Mr. Sawyer, at the Empress Hotel this morning, gave some of his impressions of Canada. He was surprised at the rapid development of the west, and was delighted with the courtesy of Canadians. "It is his first visit to the Dominion, he said, but he and his bride hope to come back."

Those impressions will be the subject of a series of articles in The Monitor when Mr. Sawyer returns to Boston. His regular assignment on the paper is Boston political affairs. He is being trained for the paper's diplomatic staff.

MAYOR GIVEN ROSE PLAQUE

Souvenir of Portland Rose Festival to Hang in Chief Magistrate's Office

A handsome plaque, inscribed with an etching of Bonneville Dam, was received at the City Hall today from the Portland Rose Festival Association. On it are the words "Presented to His Worship the Mayor of, and the City of Victoria, in appreciation of their participation in the Portland Rose Festival."

The letter accompanying the plaque, signed by Mark Woodruff, manager of the association and E. A. Burditt, president, read: "We were delighted to have you take part this year, and we trust members of your party carried away as fine impressions as they left with us. The plaque is intended to be significant of the good-will existing between yourself, your aldermen and the City of Victoria, and Portland, and as a small token of our appreciation of their participation in the 1937 celebration of the Return of the Rose."

Mayor McGavin, Alderman James Adam and John Worthington represented Victoria at the Festival.

When repairs are finished to the mayor's office, the plaque will be hung there, with other interesting souvenirs and pictures, left by distinguished visitors.

Repairs are going ahead in the mayor's private chamber, while he is absent in Toronto. He arrived there this morning for conferences with Jules E. Fortin, regarding the city's debt readjustment plan.

One of the first visitors to be received in the new office when Mayor McGavin returns from the east, will be the captain of H.M.S. Exeter, due here July 26, the day after the mayor is expected home from Toronto.
